

EMOTIONAL INTELLIGENCE (HUM1002) UNIT II

DR. KAVITHA RAJAYOGAN,
ASSISTANT PROFESSOR,
VIT BUSINESS SCHOOL

UNIT II

- Social Skills: Making an impact, Creating a powerful first impression, Assessing a situation, Being zealous without being offensive, Traits of a person with high social skills
- Self-awareness: Seeing the other side, Giving in without giving up, Life Positions – you and only you can choose your mindset; Self-Perception: Emotional Self Awareness, Self –Regard, Self-Actualization. Self-Expression: Assertiveness, Independence, Self –Regard

Social Skills

- Social skills refer to the ability of an individual to communicate, interact, and behave effectively in social and professional environments.
- It is an essential component of Emotional Intelligence and contribute significantly to leadership effectiveness, teamwork, and organizational success.

Social Skills at Workplace

Human relations skills are important at all levels of activity.

1. At the lowest level, operations, technical skills and human resource skills are nearly equal with conceptual skills the least important.
2. At the middle level, middle management, human resource skills are the most critical with more emphasis on both technical and conceptual skills.
3. At the highest level, top management, conceptual skills and human resource skills are both equally important with technical skills the least important.

Flow Hierarchy

Levels of Management

Impact on Social Skills at workplace

An ability to get along with others while performing the job

- Characteristic traits like-manners,, attitude, courtesy, habits, behaviour and appearance
- Which helps us to communicate and maintain relationship with others(social skill)

Impact of being social at workplace is improved

- ❖ Relationship at all level
- ❖ Productivity
- ❖ Working environment
- ❖ Liking by others
- ❖ All round success

Creating a powerful first impression

First impressions are formed within 7–10 seconds.

Important factors:

- Body language (posture, eye contact, facial expression)
- Tone of voice
- Appearance & grooming
- Attitude and energy
- <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=1sfM-xx7tHI>

Facial Expressions

Posture

Negative Body Language

Folded arms

Tense facial expression

Positive Body Language

Open body position (arms unfolded)

Relaxed and confident facial expression

Posture

Negative Body Language

Collapsed/slouched posture

Lack of eye contact

Positive Body Language

Upright/erect posture

Regular eye contact

Eye Contact

To make people feel good and show your interest you must maintain eye contact

Tone of voice in an Organization

❖Power :

- Let your voice to be heard and avoid the monotone voice
- Powerful voice tone reflect confidence

❖Pause :

- Take pause to stimulate thinking.
- Take pause to catch your breath if you talking quickly.

Tone of voice in an Organization

❖ Do's

- ✓ Be Polite and Respectful
- ✓ Be Calm and Controlled
- ✓ Be Clear and Confident
- ✓ Be Positive and Solution-Oriented
- ✓ Adjust tone to situation

Tone of voice in an Organization

❖Dont's

- ✓ Don't Be Aggressive or Harsh
- ✓ Don't Sound Sarcastic or Mocking
- ✓ Don't Be Dismissive
- ✓ Don't Be Overly Casual or Unprofessional
- ✓ Don't Speak Emotionally or Impulsively

Body Language

- Actual words convey only 10% of the message.
- The other 90% is transmitted by non-verbal communication which consists of 40% how it is said and 50% body language

Appearance and Grooming

- Define professionalism
- To project a positive brand image
- Foster confidence.
- Key standards include wearing clean, ironed, and appropriate business attire, maintaining high personal hygiene, neat hair, and, if required, wearing minimal jewelry.

Attitude and Energy

- A positive attitude helps you stay calm, open to learning, and solution-oriented.
- A negative attitude often leads to stress, resistance, and poor outcomes.

Attitude and Energy

- High energy shows as enthusiasm, focus, and motivation.
- Low energy shows as fatigue, boredom, or disengagement.

Assessing a situation

- Ability to understand a situation by analyzing verbal and non-verbal communication, emotional cues, unspoken concerns and social context before taking action.

Key elements of Assessing a situation

- Active Listening
- Listening to what is NOT being said.
- Identify needs
- Practice etiquette
- Responding appropriately

Active Listening

- Giving full attention to the speaker
- Characteristics
 - ✓ Paying attention to the words spoken
 - ✓ Observing tone of voice
 - ✓ Maintaining eye contact
 - ✓ Avoiding interruptions
 - ✓ Asking questions
 - ✓ Giving verbal or non-verbal feedback

Active Listening

- Example : An employee says, “I can manage the workload.” However. The listener notices fatigue and stress in the employee’s voice. This suggests the employee may need support even though they have not directly asked for it.

Listening to What is NOT being said

- Not all communication is verbal. Some emotions and concerns are expressed indirectly.
- Unspoken cues include
 - ✓ Silence or hesitation
 - ✓ Facial Expressions
 - ✓ Body Language
 - ✓ Avoidance of discussion
 - ✓ Change in behavior or tone
- Understanding these cues helps in identifying hidden emotions such as fear, anxiety, dissatisfaction or stress.

Listening to What is NOT being said

- Example : A team member remains silent during meetings but avoids eye contact.
- This may indicate lack of confidence, fear of judgement or disagreement.

Identifying Needs

- Requirements or expectation behind a person's behavior or communication.
- Common Human needs in workplace
 - ✓ Emotional support
 - ✓ Recognition and appreciation
 - ✓ Clarity and guidance
 - ✓ Respect and dignity
 - ✓ Security and fairness
- When needs are not met, individuals may express frustration, disengagement and resistance.

Identifying Needs

- Example : A student repeatedly requests deadline extensions. This may indicate a need for time management guidance, academic support or emotional reassurance rather than indiscipline.

Practicing Etiquette

- Behaving in respectful, polite and socially acceptable manner while responding to situations.
- Components of Etiquette
 - ✓ Polite Language
 - ✓ Empathy and patience
 - ✓ Professional conduct
 - ✓ Respect for others feelings

Practicing Etiquette

- Good etiquette ensures that responses do not escalate conflicts and helps to maintain healthy relationship.
- Example : If a colleague makes an error during a presentation, correcting them politely in private rather than criticizing them publicly reflects good etiquette.

Steps to Assess a situation effectively

1. Observe the situation carefully
2. Listen actively to verbal communication
3. Notice non-verbal and unspoken cues
4. Identify emotions and underlying needs
5. Consider social, cultural and professional context.
6. Respond with empathy and etiquette

Importance to Assess a situation effectively

- Improves social awareness
- Enhances decision making ability
- Reduces conflicts and misunderstandings
- Builds trust and cooperation
- Strengthens leadership effectiveness
- Promotes emotional balance

Being zealous without being offensive

- Being Zealous means showing enthusiasm, passion and strong interest.
- Being zealous without being offensive is how you express your energy , not reducing it.

Being zealous without being offensive

- Focus on what is important to the other person.
- Respect boundaries(Every one has their personal Boundaries)
- Make request, not demands

Focus on what is important to the other person

- Zeal should align with the other person's need, values or concerns
- Understanding their perspective reduces resistance
- Example : “I understand deadlines matter to you. My suggestion helps us meet them faster”

Respect Personal Boundaries

- Everyone has emotional, personal and professional limits
- Respecting boundaries builds trust and openness
- Example : I respect your view, even though I feel strongly about mine”

Make Requests, Not Demands

- Request shows respect and choice
- Demand create pressure and defensiveness

Example : Could we try this approach and see the result ?

Traits of a person with high social skills

- Effective communication
 - Active listening
 - Empathy
 - Confidence
 - Positive attitude
 - Adaptability
 - Respectfulness
-
- A blue decorative curve is located in the bottom right corner of the slide, starting from the bottom edge and curving upwards and to the left.

Traits of a person with high social skills

- Cooperation and teamwork
 - Conflict resolution ability
 - Assertiveness
 - Patience
 - Openness to feedback
 - Self-control
 - Cultural sensitivity
-
- A blue decorative curve is located in the bottom right corner of the slide, starting from the bottom edge and curving upwards and to the left.

Effective Communication

- Expresses ideas clearly and confidently
- Uses appropriate tone, words, and body language.
- Avoids misunderstanding by being clear and precise.

Example : A teacher explains a complex topic in simple language so all students understand.

Active listening

- Listening attentively without interrupting
- Shows interest through eye contact and nodding
- Responds thoughtfully

Example : A friend listens patiently to your problem instead of checking their phone or interrupting.

Empathy

- Understands others' feeling and emotions.
- Shows care and compassion
- Builds emotional connection

Example : A colleague supports a teammate who is stressed instead of criticizing them.

Confidence

- Believes in oneself
- Speaks without fear
- Maintains positive body language

Example : A student confidently presents a seminar in front of the class

Positive Attitude

- Maintains optimism
- Encourages others
- Handles criticism constructively

Example : An employee accepts feedback and works to improve instead of getting offended.

Adaptability

- Adjust behavior according to the situation
- Respects different cultures and opinions
- Flexible in social interactions

Example : A professional changes communication style while talking to seniors versus friends

Conflict Resolution Skills

- Handles disagreements calmly
- Finds solutions instead of blaming
- Maintain relationships

Example : Two team members resolve a disagreement through discussion rather than argument.

Respectfulness

- Values others' opinions
- Uses polite language
- Maintains good manners

Example : Listening respectfully even when you disagree with someone's opinion

Conflict Resolution Skills

- Handles disagreements calmly
- Finds solutions instead of blaming
- Maintain relationships

Example : Two team members resolve a disagreement through discussion rather than argument.

Cooperation and teamwork

- Works well with others
- Shares responsibilities and ideas
- Supports team members to achieve common goals

Example : A team member helps colleagues complete a project on time.

Conflict Resolution Ability

- Handles disagreement calmly
- Listens to all viewpoints
- Finds mutually acceptable solutions

Example : Resolving a team disagreement through discussion instead of arguments.

Assertiveness

- Expresses thoughts and opinions clearly
- Respects others while standing up for oneself
- Avoids aggression and passiveness

Example : Politely refusing extra work when already overload

Patience

- Remains calm in difficult situations
- Tolerates mistakes and delays
- Responds thoughtfully instead of reacting emotionally.

Example : A teacher patiently explaining a concept multiples times to students

Openness to Feedback

- Accepts constructive criticism positively.
- Learns from suggestions
- Willing to improve behavior or performance

Example : An employee improves performance after receiving feedback from a supervisor

Self Control

- Manages emotions effectively
- Avoid anger and impulsive reactions
- Maintains professionalism in social situations

Example : Staying calm during a heated discussion at work

Cultural sensitivity

- Respects different cultures and beliefs
- Avoids stereotypes and prejudice
- Adapts behaviour in diverse social settings

Example : Respecting customs and traditions while working in a multicultural team

SOCIAL AWARENESS

- Understanding your emotions, thoughts, and behavior
- Recognizing how your actions affect others
- Example: Realizing that feeling irritated during a meeting is due to lack of sleep, not because of a colleague's comment.

Types of Social Awareness

- Internal Self-Awareness
- External Self-Awareness
- Metacognitive Self-Awareness
- Situational/Temporal Self-Awareness

Types of Social Awareness

- Internal Self-Awareness: Understanding your own values, passions, aspirations, and reactions.

Example : Knowing you get fearful before public speaking and understanding why.

- External Self-Awareness: Understanding how other people view you.

Example : Some people see me as reserved at first, I know others see me as quiet in meetings

Types of Social Awareness

- Metacognitive Self-Awareness : Being aware of your own thinking processes, beliefs, and cognitive biases.

Example : I learn best when I see examples, I know I make mistakes when I rush

- Situational/Temporal Self-Awareness :

Understanding your role, behaviors, and goals in specific situations and over time (past, present, future).

Example : You realize you feel nervous now, but remind yourself this feeling is temporary.

Seeing Others Side

- Ability to empathize and consider others' perspectives
- Helps in conflict resolution and better decision-making
- Example: During a team discussion, instead of arguing, you try to understand a teammate's point of view and respond constructively.

Giving in without giving up

- Being flexible in approach without compromising core values.
 - Adjusting methods, not principles.
 - Choosing collaboration over conflict.
-
- A blue curved decorative element is located in the bottom right corner of the slide, curving upwards and to the left.

Giving in without giving up

- Example : A company faces pressure from a client to deliver a project earlier than planned.

Giving In (Flexibility):

- The company adjusts internal schedules.
- Delivers the project in phases instead of all at once.

Without Giving Up (Core Values):

- Maintains quality standards.
- Follows testing and review procedures.

Life position – Choosing your Mindset

Life position – Choosing your Mindset (Transactional Analysis)

- I'm OK – You're OK (Healthy Position) - I respect myself and respect others.

Example : A team leader receives negative feedback on a project. Instead of blaming the team or feeling defensive, the leader discusses improvements collaboratively.

- I'm OK – You're NOT OK (Authoritarian Position) -I see myself as superior to others.

Example : A manager believes employees are inefficient and micromanages every task without trusting the team.

Life position – Choosing your Mindset (Transactional Analysis)

- I'm NOT OK – You're OK (Inferiority Position) - I undervalue myself and overvalue others.

Example : A junior employee hesitates to share ideas in meetings, assuming seniors always know better.

- I'm NOT OK – You're NOT OK (Hopeless Position) -Negative view of both self and others.

Example : An employee feels efforts are pointless and assumes management and colleagues don't care.

Self Perception

- Self-perception is the mental image and judgment you have of yourself, shaped by observing your own actions and feelings.
- It involves interpreting your behavior—like thinking "I must like running because I do it often"—to determine your attitudes and self-worth.
- It consists of self-concept (who you think you are) and self-esteem (how much you value that image).

Self Perception Theory

- This theory was proposed by Daryl Bem in the 1960s
- Self-perception theory describes how people infer their own attitudes by observing their behavior.
- This theory includes

✓ Formation of Attitudes: People develop their attitudes by looking at their own actions, just like they judge others by observing their behavior.

Example : “If I always participate in meetings, I must be confident.”

✓ Ambiguous Situations: This theory works best when a person is not sure about their feelings.

Example : If someone is unsure whether they like teaching, but they enjoy conducting classes regularly, they may conclude, “I like teaching.”

Self Perception Theory

✓ Behavioral Influence: Small actions can slowly change attitudes.

Example : If a person agrees to volunteer once, they may later see themselves as helpful and volunteer more often.

✓ Contrast with Cognitive Dissonance: While cognitive dissonance suggests people change attitudes to reduce tension from conflicting behaviors, self-perception theory suggests they observe behaviour and form attitudes

Example : Self-Perception Theory: “I often work extra hours. I must be dedicated to my job.”

Cognitive Dissonance: “I don’t like overtime, but I keep doing it. That feels uncomfortable. Maybe overtime is actually important for career growth.”

Emotional Self-Awareness

- Emotional self-awareness is the ability to identify and understand one's emotions and how they affect everyday performance.
- Example : A project manager notices feeling irritated and stressed during weekly team meetings.
- Emotional Self-Awareness in Action:
 - ❖ Emotion identified: Frustration and anxiety
 - ❖ Reason recognized: Project deadlines are tight, and the manager feels pressure from senior leadership
 - ❖ Impact understood: Irritation is affecting communication with team members

Emotional Self-Awareness

- Outcome:
 - ❖ Instead of reacting harshly, the manager:
 - ❖ Communicates expectations clearly
 - ❖ Requests realistic timelines
 - ❖ Delegates tasks more effectively
- Result for the Organization:
 - ❖ Improved team morale
 - ❖ Reduced conflicts
 - ❖ Better productivity and timely project delivery

Sign you lack of Emotional Self-awareness

- You have trouble identifying your feelings.
- Your emotions frequently feel out of control.
- You blame others for your emotional state.
- You have trouble empathizing with others.

Benefits of Emotional Self-Awareness

- Improved decision-making
- Healthier Relationships
- Reduced Stress and Anxiety
- Becoming stronger and better at handling problems or stress.

Disadvantages of Emotional Self-Awareness

- Gets upset or stressed quickly.
- Lead to overthinking and rumination
- Interfere with your performance and creativity
- Affect your social interactions and relationships

Developing Emotional Self-Awareness

- Practice mindfulness meditation.
- Record your emotions.
- Check in with yourself regularly.
- Ask for feedback.
- Practice self-compassion
- Become More Emotionally Self-Aware

Self Regard

- Self-regard is the ability to respect and accept yourself, essentially liking the way you are.
- To have healthy self-regard is to appreciate your perceived positive aspects and potential

Self Regard

- Components: It combines self-respect, self-confidence, and self-acceptance.
- Impact of Levels:
 - High/Healthy Self-Regard: Leads to confidence, resilience, and the ability to handle constructive criticism.
 - Low Self-Regard: May lead to victimization, insecurity, and an inability to recognize personal value.

Activity – Self Assessment

Rate yourself from (1 to 5) 1 – Strongly Disagree 5 – Strongly Agree

1. I feel confident about my abilities.
2. I accept my strengths and weaknesses.
3. I can handle criticism without feeling personally attacked.
4. I believe I deserve success.
5. I can express my opinions confidently in group discussions.
6. I respect myself even when others disagree with me.
7. I am comfortable saying “no” when necessary.
8. I take responsibility for my mistakes.
9. I believe I can improve through effort.
10. I do not constantly seek approval from others.

Activity – Self Assessment

Rate yourself from (1 to 5) 1 – Strongly Disagree 5 – Strongly Agree

- 11. I often compare myself negatively with others.
- 12. I feel inferior when someone performs better than me.
- 13. I avoid speaking up because I fear judgment.
- 14. Criticism makes me doubt my overall ability.
- 15 I feel unworthy of recognition or appreciation.

Activity – Self Assessment

Step 1 : Add all the scores from 1 to 10

Step 2 : Reverse Score Questions 11 – 15. Then add the reverse scores

Original Score	Reverse Score
1	5
2	4
3	3
4	2
5	1

Activity

Score Range	Self-Regard Level
60 – 75	High Healthy Self-Regard
45 – 59	Moderate / Developing
30 – 44	Low Self-Regard
15 – 29	Very Low – Needs Attention

- In which areas do you feel confident?
- How does criticism affect you?
- What steps can you take to improve your self-regard?

Developing Self Regard

- Practice Self-Compassion

Be kind to yourself during mistakes instead of being harsh.

Example: After failing a test, saying “I’ll prepare better next time” instead of “I’m useless.”

- Engage in Positive Self-Talk

Replace negative thoughts with encouraging and constructive thoughts.

Example: Saying “I can handle this presentation” instead of “I will mess this up.”

Developing Self Regard

- Set Realistic Goals and Celebrate Achievements

Set achievable targets and appreciate your progress.

Example: Completing one chapter per day and rewarding yourself after finishing it.

- Cultivate Self-Awareness

Understand your emotions, strengths, and weaknesses clearly.

Example: Realizing you feel stressed before deadlines and planning work earlier.

- Establish Healthy Boundaries

Respect your limits and communicate them confidently.

Example: Saying “I cannot take extra work today” when your schedule is full.

Self Actualization

- Self-actualization is the active, ongoing process of realizing one's full potential, talents, and capabilities, representing the highest level of psychological growth.
- Cultivating self-actualization enhances wellbeing & drives individuals toward achieving their highest potential.

Maslow's hierarchy need

Maslow's hierarchy of needs

A classic psychological framework from Abraham Maslow.

BiteSize Learning

Self Expression

- Self-Expression is the ability to clearly and confidently express your thoughts, feelings, and opinions in a respectful and appropriate way.
- Saying what you feel and think honestly — without hurting others and without suppressing yourself.
- Example : “I won’t be able to stay late today, but I can complete the task tomorrow morning.”

Components of Self Expression

- Assertiveness – Expressing opinions confidently without being aggressive.
- Independence – Making decisions based on your own thinking.
- Emotional Expression – Communicating feelings appropriately.

Why Self Expression is important?

- Builds confidence
 - Improves relationships
 - Prevents misunderstandings
 - Reduces stress
 - Strengthens leadership skills
-
- A blue decorative curve is located in the bottom right corner of the slide, starting from the bottom edge and curving upwards and to the left.

Assertiveness

- This is the capacity to express oneself confidently without being aggressive or passive, standing up for one's rights while respecting others.
- Example : During a meeting, you say: “I appreciate your idea, but I think we should consider the budget constraints before finalizing.”

Independence

- Independence is the ability to think and make decisions on your own, without being overly influenced by others.
- Example : A student chooses a career path based on personal interest rather than peer pressure.

Emotional Expression

- Emotional Expression is the ability to communicate your feelings clearly and appropriately.
- It means expressing emotions in a controlled and healthy way.
- Example : Instead of shouting:“I am extremely frustrated!”

You say:“I feel stressed due to the workload. Can we discuss task distribution?”

THANK you